THE CLIPPER

SENIOR CLASS

FIELD HIGH SCHOOL

JANUARY 1936

DEDICATED TO

HARRY M. RICE

In spite of his strenuous objections, we are dedicating our annual to our advisor, Harry M. Rice. Mr. Rice at first refused the honor, declaring that as our class had broken so many precedents during our four years in High School, we should continue this practice by dedicating the Annual to someone else in school.

The class unanimously decided that anyone who had been such a grand person to us throughout our four years and who was "one of the gang" deserved some acclaim and thanks. His objection was overruled and the Annual is dedicated to one of the most popular teachers in school.

Foreword

IN publishing this class book, "The Clipper," we of the staff have sought to make this book, universal in scope, including all the activities of the school, and bearing constantly in mind that it is not only a Senior Class publication, but a school Semi-Annual.

We realize that progress is a universal aim. In naming this book, "The Clipper," we have tried to make it emblematic of the spirit of progress in the Bloomfield High School as the New Clipper ships symbolize progress in the air.

There's never a last frontier. Therefore we hope that each member of our class will continue to play his part in bearing onward and upward the standard of civilization, just as the Silver Clippers soar on high, pushing back another frontier.

Alma Mater

There's a High School in New Jersey
 Dear old Bloomfield, bless her name
 And we love her, yes, we love her
 Since the day when first we came
 So all hail to Alma Mater
 And pledge eternally
 To live and die for Bloomfield High
 In love and loyalty.
 Soon the time will come when leaving
 Brings sorrow to each heart
 And we'll say "goodbye" to Bloomfield
 Let us promise ere we part
 Though the years be long when ever
 We may meet we'll join in praise
 And thank our Alma Mater
 For our good old High School Days.

—A. DIXIE CROSBY.

Class Prophecy

"All aboard, all aboard!" Francis Bonkowski impatiently bellows.

Down the platform rush the thrilled newlyweds, Ken Hopping and his blushing bride, the former Loey Osborne. In the mad hustle they nearly collide with the baggage truck which Teddy Lapinski is nonchalantly pushing. Unaware of anyone but each other, they board the train. As the porter, Chauncey Garnes, conducts them to their coach, they are surprised to see on the same train some of their former classmates en route to a teachers' convention at Washington, D. C. They hurriedly renew friendship with Mr. Schmersahl, Mr. Knieriemen, Miss Nelson, Miss Van Den Heuvel, Miss Gibbons, Miss Britton, Mr. Kedderis and Miss Krantz, and go on their way.

In the dining car Walt Luthy sings, "Your order please!" At the next table we notice America's best dressed woman, Marie Adams, conversing with Steve Schuyler, the honorable president of the Bloomfield Savings Bank.

Before long the train rolls into the Union Station at Washington. The couple plan a short sight-seeing trip by bus. From the driver's seat, happy-go-lucky Eve Budris is enjoying herself tooting the musical horn. She is trying her best to drown out the shouts of the enthusiastic guide, Charlie Kerr. Some one rudely interrupting the guide, exclaims, "Isn't that President Strevig leaving the White House with Dave Cunard?"

Another replies, "It's none other . . . our first woman president and that well-known Tammany Hall Leader."

Soon they return to their hotel. Howard King, the hotel manager, greets the pair as they approach the desk to register. The elevator, operated by Sid Mason, takes them to their floor.

The next afternoon, we find Loey and Ken in N. Y. They have reservations at one of the swankiest theaters there. Walking down Broadway, they thrill at the dazzling lights introducing the new Hollywood stars, Muriel Smith and Russell Thoenig. The foyer is crowded with celebrities many of whom we recognize. Among them are Henry Mac Donald, criminologist; Burt Lawton, swimmer; Finlay Remington, explorer; Viola Saporito, congresswoman; and N. Y. Chief-of-Police, Andy Anderson, with his charming wife, the former Jo Montini. The head usher, Gordon Poole, scurries about picking up cigarette butts.

"First curtain, first curtain," warns usher, "Windy" Castagno. This sets everyone hurrying to his seat. A roll on the drums by Johnny Lennon opens the show. The curtains part and Richard Smith steps into the spotlight to act as master of ceremonies. He presents to-night's guest artists, William Hepple, Czar of Broadway, and his faithful stooge Alan Wagner. After their performance two local girls who "made good", Peggy Gregory and Ruth Hampe, warble some favorite selections. To conclude the program six lovely girls, Bobbie Drabble, Lynn Steenwerth, Audrey Jones, Helyn Dobkowski, Peggy Todd and Del Syloski, do a military tap dance.

In front of the theatre they hail a taxi-cab which, incidently, is driven by Johnny Rostkowski.

Our friends' next experience is an aeroplane trip to return them to their new home in Allwood, N. J. The majestic plane has as its capable pilot, Zawicki, aided by his co-pilot, Bob Hutchinson. The air hostess, Betty Taton, and her companion, Nurse Faber, are helping make comfortable the passengers. It so happens that the Hoppings meet the Williams girls, who are returning from N. Y. where they have an art studio. Loey hears that there is to be a fashion show after lunch. One of the best poised models is Tillie Wesoloski. Millie Covello is also beautifully groomed.

The night after their homecoming a few friends honor them with a party. In preparation for the anticipated affair, wifey wants to spend a while at a beauty parlor. To her amazement she discovers the owner of the shop is Kits Wathey. She has started the business with Muriel Higgins and Ericka Erickson. Loey, glancing at a magazine, spies a photograph of Ruth Van Riper, the senior girl with the nicest smile, advertising a tooth powder. Oh, at the lower corner, is printed "Photograph by Olsen." While receiving a manicure, Loey collects news of the whereabouts of a few of their former classmates. Howard Hoffman is a conscientious electrician, Charles Evans is a busy journalist, Claire De Moyne is matron of an orphan asylum, and Vera Taberner is a clever novelist.

At the party they have the privilege of having in their midst, Will Rogers the beloved magician, and his buddy Charlie Morgan. An interesting lecture is delivered by Gertrude Catlow on Sarah Gross' latest book, "Turnbull, the Inventor."

After these entertainers do their part, a hub-bub arises. Some one has suggested a mock wedding. The procession is formed, and all are giggling. The bride and groom are Marian Smith and Art Westervelt. The maid of honor Floss Webber; the flower girl, Helene Zimmer; and the bridesmaids are Althea De Pasqual, El Frick, Alice Orr, and Laura Pesda. Ted Jarmusz is chosen as best man, and . . . the parson is Art Lape. The hilarity halts at about 3 A. M. when every guest has departed.

Having become acquainted with their cozy home, hubby and wifey go shopping. They find Aileen Ayers at the information desk in a department store. She informs them of the schoolboys who have become prominent professional men in town . . . Alfred Folbrecht, a lawyer, and Francis Tennyck, a doctor. She says that Francis Kliminski keeps things lively at the fire-house and that Nathan Hersh is running a music store.

One morning as Loey is baking, the door-bell buzzes. She opens the door and who should greet her but the that well-known "Fuller Brush Man," Harry Bennett. We leave them bending over his sales kit.

What's In A Name

The shrill blast of a whistle cut the air. "Hey, pull over to the curb." ordered a policeman gruffly. "You were going ten miles over the speed limit."

The young girl in the long low roadster sighed and said, "Oh, WADSTEN miles over the speed limit? Say, is this the WRIGHT WAY to the village of WASSERBERG?"

"Sure it is, and its a FEINBERG to live in, but don't change the subject. Have I SENIOR license?" The cop genially answered, for her smile was pleasant.

"Oh, but I wasn't changing the subject," she smiled again, "of course, you MACY my license. Here it is. Is the judge of this town strict with speeders? Huh, I'm not afraid of that smart ALECKNER any other GEYER even a big strong cop like you."

The policeman grunted, "Heh, heh, th' ESSI Good one. Maybe you don't know it but this judge is a terror. He'll probably say CAESAR and DRAEGER off for a life sentence. That's how strict his LAW is. Why one time a woman came to court because her husband beat her. ANDERSON came too. He was a PROUT boy who was usually off on a bender raising KANE. Will, the father, thought a woman should MEINDERMAN and him only. WILSON didn't think the way his father did, but anyhow he tried to TWIST the law around to get his father out of a sentence, but it couldn't be done. Will said that it 'PEARSON to be a hopeless case, and the LAWSON can't be beat. So now Will is not a FREEMAN any longer. Well, here I am talking and it's started to rain. You better come along with me and tell the judge. Do you think this HAACKE can carry both of us?"

"Say, listen here," indignantly replied our heroine. "This CARSWELL and what's MORITZ a very expensive one, it was the BEST in the show window. Well, anyway hop in and off we go."

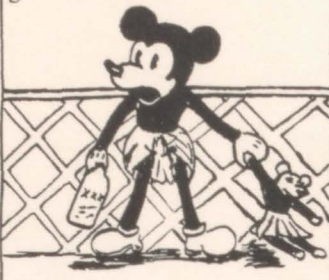

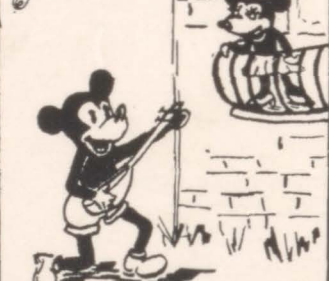

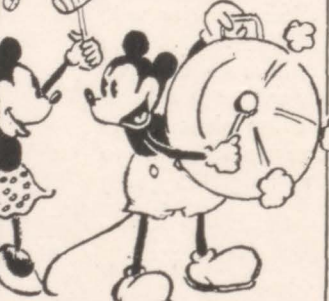

So HOPPING into the car the pair rode to the station house through wet streets. The little car was nearly submerged in a POOLE of water, not once but several times. The rain fell in a FLOOD and TORRANCE of water deluged the car.

"You know," the policeman became loquacious, "this Judge Koch is a terror. He has up in front of his BARMORE cases than I can count. One, I recall, was a young woman and I sure felt like telling her: to GEMINDER home and not bother the court. It seems she was a NUSE reporter with a southern accent. "OSBORNE in the south, it's a fine GREENLAND and the home of general LEE," she would always say. Oh well, here we are; you can go right into the judges' CHAMBER, LIN, his secretary will let you know if you can see him. That guy Lin is a funny fellow. He often gives Judge KOCH and often SCHAUTZ at him, too, but the judge never seems to mind it. MOORMANN than I thought he was. Well, so long, I'm going back on my beat. I'll let you go this time."

ATHLETICS

Football

For three consecutive seasons, the "Bloomfield Bengals" were named champions of Northern New Jersey. But this year Phillipsburg has been named co-champions. Bloomfield has booked Phillipsburg for the initial game next fall to prevent this from occurring again. In 1932 the Bengals were given the title when Dickinson proved to be ineligible. In 1933 Bloomfield won the title again, amassing 351 points to the opponents' 6.

The following year Bloomfield acquired the title of champion by its victory over Collingswood, Southern Jersey's star pigskin manipulators. This year the Bloomfield eleven completed its schedule undefeated, untied and unscored upon, with every opponent pointing for the Bengals and making the meeting their big game. The Bloomfielders found themselves co-champions with Phillipsburg for the Northern New Jersey crown.

The Bengals opened their season on the 28th of September with the 1934 greater New York City Champions, James Madison. The Madisonians were easily taken into camp on a wet and muddy field, and proved to be just a workout for Bloomfield because at the end of four quarters the score was 41-0 in favor of the home town boys.

On the following Saturday the Bloomfielders invaded Belleville and brought home the bacon, after downing the Bell boys, 13-0.

A week later we took on the Sunnysiders from Newark and they provided us with several headaches. Up to this time no one had been able to make a first down, but the Newark boys threatened our goal by making four first downs in a row. When the whistle blew the score was 13-0 in favor of the Bengals.

The boys from the Silk City, Paterson, invaded us on October 19. The Bengals started off with a crashing attack of rushing, passing, and kicking which lasted throughout the game. This proved to be too much for the visitors who went home defeated 32-0.

On the next Saturday the lads from Dickinson in Jersey City, paid us a pleasant visit. Perhaps they came over with the idea of repeating what they had done in 1932, defeating us 32-0; if so, they were mistaken for they were sent home on the short end of a 26-0 score.

November 2 saw the second largest attendance of the year when Garfield invaded our town. They came over all steamed up, but the Bergen County boys were put away for another year to the tune of 25-0.

A journey into the Camptown, Irvington, on the following Saturday did the team a world of good. When the smoke had cleared away, the final score was 31-0 in favor of Bloomfield.

A week later we took on our pre-turkey day rivals, Nutley. They too came over hoping to do something they had done before, for in 1933 they were the only team to score on us. All their hopes soon disappeared, and again Bloomfield came through 13-0.

Thanksgiving morning came, cloudy and damp, but that did not stop some 16,000 people from filling our stadium. For those who were unable to attend the traditional game, it was broadcast. Montclair was supposed to be able to score on us if they did not upset the Bengals, but the Bengals won 12-0 in a game in which not a single major penalty was imposed.

Boys' Swimming Team

The Bengals are embarked upon their third season of swimming in B. H. S. and from all appearances it should be their best. Last season disaster overtook the Red and Grey tank team when their captain, Steve Schuyler, star breast stroker, met with an accident.

All home meets and practices are held in the Montclair Y. M. C. A. where Dick Cheadle is the coach.

1935-1936 Basketball Season

Will Bloomfield High School add further laurels to its well-known name by having a basketball five equal to any in the state? This is a question that will be answered for all Bengal rooters early in April, when the state basketball tournament comes to a close.

Practically the same fighting team which made a garrison finish of the last season will again represent Bloomfield on the court. Five members of last year's varsity squad, Worthington, Morgan, Daniels, P. Sheyka, and Neigh will probably hold down regular berths. Pushing them for these positions will be Fredericks, Lockwood, Bekiesz, Kinder, J. Sheyka, and A. Haug.

Baseball

The team won 13 games to take the greater Newark Championship in the finals from Hillside. The B. H. S. nine was led by Malin Zergiebel, captain and shortstop of the team and by the king right-handed pitcher, Henry Borowy. Hank's fine pitching turned back team after team. Several other features were Mazur, Nicosia, and Nelson. The fielding gems of the season were center-fielder Nelson's long strikes to the plate.
